About Michigan Honey Festival

Michigan Honey Festival is a non-profit seeking to educate the public about the role the honey bee plays in our existence. The Festival is a fun, inexpensive and informative day for everyone from young to old. All attendees will walk away with something, including our vendors and sponsors. To keep our gate prices low, attract quality presentations, and rent the beautiful facility that we are in, the need for sponsorship has never been greater! Please understand that everyone on the board of directors, festival committees, or others associated with the formation of the festival are strictly on a volunteer basis and receives no compensation, financial or otherwise.
